FIGHTING SUNDAY.

Russians and the Japs Engage In Another Battle.

Trouble With England Has Been Amicably Adjusted.

St. Petersburg, July 24.—Orders have been sent to the volunteer fleet steamers St. Petersburg and Smolensk to refrain from interference with foreign shipping. It is expected that these steamers will eventually join the Baltic fleet and be replaced by ordinary warships.

The Associated Press is able to state on the highest authority that the Russian and British Governments have agreed on a mutually satisfactory basis for a settlement of the question of the status of Russian volunteer fleet steamers in the Red Sea and the seizures by them of British ships.

The Japanese and Russian armies met Saturday six miles from New Chwang and the engagement is said to have been attended with heavy losses. One report puts the Russian loss at 700 and says the fighting continued Sunday. The Japanese are said to be slowly nearing New Chwang. Eight Japanese cruisers, conveying transports with troops, have arrived at Yin Kow. The Russians are anticipating a general advance by the enemy.

MADDOX MAY DIE.

Second Operation to be Performed This Week.

W. L. Maddox, the young man who had a leg crushed by a train at Springfield, Tenn.; last week, was brought to his home in this city Friday night. His leg was amputated and he stood the operation well, but gangrene has developed and another section of the limb will have to be taken off. As soon as the line of demarcation is established and his physical condition will permit, the second operation will be performed.

SEBREE MEETING.

Two Weeks' Series Will Begin To-Morrow.

The annual Sebree camp meeting will commence tomorrow at Cascade camp grounds, one mile south of the town, and will continue about ten days. Most of the preaching will be done by the Rev. J. T. Newsome of Illinois. There are already a number of families camping on the grounds. Nearly all of the ministers of Sebree will assist Dr. Newsome in the series of meetings. The management is expecting a good attendance this year, as no meeting was held last summer.

MAY RECOVER.

Gen. Buckner Not Much Better But Doctors Have Hopes.

Munfordville, Ky., July 24.—The condition of Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner is hardly so good as yesterday, which was the best day he has had since the beginning of the attack. His physicians say, while he is hardly as well as yesterday, yet he has not lost ground since then. His superb constitution and strong vitality, and the excellent care and attention he receives make his recovery very probable. Mrs. Buckner has never left his bedside since his illness began.

DANIEL DEAD.

Gangrene Set Up And Second Operation Was Performed.

Robert Daniel, col., who was injured by a train at Casky one night last week, is dead. The morning after the accident Daniel was brought here and one leg was amputated. Gangrene set up and it became necessary to operate the second time. He lingered until Thursday night.

STRIKE RESUMED.

Packers Refused to Take Back The Old Butchers.

All Indications Now Point To a Fight To The Finish.

Chicago, July 23.—Negotiations for the settlement of the strike which was resumed yesterday are off entirely and both sides declare that there is war until the other surrenders. A conference was held today which failed utterly to accomplish anything. The strike representatives demand that the men apply for work should have it, up to the entire needs of the establishments, while the packers would not recede from their former position to employ just such men as they desired and in such numbers as they thought necessary, looking to the provision of the arbitration agreement which gives them fifty-five days in which to restore all the union men to their situations.

CONTEST AT CROFTON.

Old Time Fiddlers to Entertain August 6.

Crofton is to have another Old Time Fiddlers' Contest. The date has been fixed for Saturday night, August 6. There will be about thirty performers on hand, among the number being several from this city. Handsome prizes will be given to the successful contestants and the entertainment promises to eclipse any contest held in the county for years.

The program embraces about forty numbers, among them being individual contests, duets, quartets, etc. Tickets have already been placed on sale in Crofton and the prospects are that there will be a crowded house on the occasion. Quite a number from this city will attend.

SACK OF FOWLS.

John Henry Cole Charged With Stealing Chickens.

Sunday night some one entered Mr. C. W. Jones' henry on East Ninth street and carried off a number of fowls. At an early hour yesterday morning Officer George Walker arrested John Henry Cole, in that vicinity and locked him up. When taken into custody Cole had nine chickens in a sack, all with their necks broken. The negro confessed to the officer that he stole the chickens. He was held over to circuit court.

SALLPOX AT EMPIRE.

Several Cases Reported But No Fatalities.

There are several cases of smallpox near Empire. There have been no fatalities from the disease, as yet, however. The county health officer has ordered all the school children of Empire and vicinity to be vaccinated and it is likely that a similar order will be enforced among the miners.

CLEAN AND COOL.

Ice Plant and Water Works Being Built.

The machinery for the ice plant at Cadiz has arrived, and is being put in place. The promoters expect to be making ice in ten days. The work of erecting the standpipe for the new water works at that place has also begun and will be pushed to rapid completion.

Died Away From Home.

The wife of Tom Bowman, col., of this place, died in Nashville Sunday, where she went to receive treatment for paralysis. She was 70 years old. The body was brought here last night and will be interred today.

Mrs. C. A. Cosby, of Texas, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Goldthwaite.

GOES TO LAKELAND.

Dr. J. W. Stevens Given a Promotion by Governor.

Becomes First Assistant Under Dr. M. H. Yeaman--New Man Here.

Frankfort, Ky., July 25.—Gov. Beckham Saturday filled the vacancies caused recently among the officials of the Central Asylum for the Insane at Lakeland by the resignation of Superintendent J. G. Furnish and the removal of First Assistant Physician C. C. Owens, appointing Dr. Malcolm H. Yeaman, of Henderson, to succeed Superintendent Furnish, and Dr. J. W. Stephens, of Todd county, to the place of first assistant physician. Dr. W. E. Gardner, of Hardin county, was named for the place of second assistant physician. The appointments are effective on Monday, August 1, next, when Dr. Furnish retires from the management of the institution.

First Assistant Physician Stephen comes to the Central asylum from the Western asylum at Hopkinsville, where, for several years, he has held the place of second assistant physician, and filled it capably. Dr. Gardner, the new second assistant at Lakeland, is a practicing physician at Glendale, Hardin county, and is also strongly endorsed. The successor of Dr. Stephens at the Hopkinsville institution has been selected by Gov. Beckham, and his appointment will be announced within the next few days.

Good Man Promoted.

Dr. Stephens, who will be transferred from Hopkinsville to Lakeland, has stood the test of several changes in asylum administration and is conceded to be a very efficient and capable physician for asylum work. He has kept aloof from factions and has attended strictly to his duties. During the four years and more he has been in the Western Asylum he has acquainted himself with all branches of the work and is qualified to bring to his work at Lakeland first class qualifications.

Dr. Stephens is unmarried, but his matrimonial prospects are said to be very bright.

AMPLE PROVISION,

Live Stock Buildings at the World's Fair.

Ample provision is made for the displays of live stock at the World's Fair by a well located site, situated on the highest point of the grounds and adjoining one of the main entrances. The floor space of all the Exposition palaces covers less than 120 acres, while the several live stock shows will occupy about 200 acres, or 60 acres more than all the balance of the World's Fair exhibits under roof. The extent and value of the live stock show of the exposition is only partially understood by a very limited number of students of animal husbandry. Some idea may be gained from a brief summary of the provisions made for buildings.

Live Stock Forum.

The largest building on the site has been designated the Live Stock Forum, which is "to accommodate the court by which the comparative merits of the various competitive exhibits of live stock are to be judged, and the awards announced to the public in attendance."

The live stock forum is located a short distance west of University Boulevard and with an adjoining station for the intramural road. The ground plan is elliptical and encloses an area of 250x500 feet. It is the largest amphitheater ever provided for displays of live stock. Only that portion of the arena given over to seats is roofed over, and the ring will be covered with sawdust or tanbark.

This is the only structure provided for the live stock department that can be given any notable degree of architectural effect combining with exposition construction. The building is given pronounced elevation effect by the use of upright columns in the exterior wall construction.

The forum is very substantially constructed and provided with eight tiers of raised amphitheater seats encircling the arena. The arena is surrounded with a six foot promenade on a level with the ground floor. A substantial partition or fence separates the arena from the lower promenade. The upper promenade is within one foot of the upper tier of seats of the amphitheater and twelve feet in width.

Two main entrances to the forum are provided for visitors, one located at the center of the east side and one at the center of the north end of the forum. There are twelve minor entrances for visitors, with suitable stairs from the lower to the upper promenade, on each side of the four main entrances and on one side of the twelve minor entrances.

The outside of the forum is enclosed and the amphitheater seats are amply protected. Provision is made for both day and evening exhibitions.

The Stock Barns.

The barns provided for the World's Fair exhibits of live stock are mainly 200 feet long by 46 feet wide, and provided for 3000 stalls 5 feet wide and 10 feet deep, and 350 box stalls 10 x 10 feet, five at each end of and on opposite sides of each barn. They are well ventilated, with good day lighting by windows, and electric lights by night.

Water is supplied by hydrants inside of and at each end of the barns; also by hydrant with water trough, or a washing platform with grade and with sewerage facilities for carrying waste water away from the platform.

The stalls have stationary hay mangers full width of the stall and 36 inches high for horses, and are provided with loose feed boxes, 18 x 12 inches and six inches deep for grain. In each box stall are loose feed boxes for each end of the manager. The box stalls are constructed with open work in front from four feet above the ground, for convenience for seeing the animals within. Each open stall is provided with a lifting front door 4 feet high, for use during the show of swine and sheep. The dirt floors of the barns are to be maintained smooth, roofed, and covered with not less than three inches of saw dust or tan bark.

A line of guard posts, 4 x 4 set three feet in the rear of the stall partitions, 15 feet apart—the posts 3 1/2 feet in height with hole three inches from the top and 1 inch guard rope extending east and west is provided with hook and ring.

The stall of each barn extends from the sides of the barn over the stalls and toward the center of the barn 12 feet. Pulleys with ropes and hooks are provided on either side of each barn for hoisting feed and baggage to the loft, which will be used as sleeping quarters for the herdsman and the storage of the current supply of grain and forage. A stationary ladder leading to the loft is located on each side at the end of each barn.

Barns are numbered on each end, and each stall is to be numbered with figures not less than four inches in height. Sign boards are placed at each end of each block giving its designation, thus: "East Block," "Central Block."

The grounds are supplied with suitably constructed water closets and lavatories.

Each barn is to be provided with a flag staff 12 feet high at either end, with rope and pulley.

Live Stock Review Park.

The live stock review park is provided for the purpose of assembling for the close, personal inspection of the press and the public, the horses and cattle as judged, and immediately after the awards in each section have been made. The stock will be conducted directly from the live stock forum as judged, to the review park adjoining, and be ranked in the order of merit as determined by the judge. Every facility will be provided for the press and the public in the review Park to give the animals critical and deliberate examination, to confer with the judge and to determine the respective merits of the entries and complete for publication a detailed review of the work of the judge in the forum.

Live Stock Buildings at The World's Fair.

The review park is located near the forum and is enclosed with a woven wire fence, four feet high, with a sliding, ten-foot entrance gate at the center of the East side, and a similar gate on each end opposite, and in the center of the West side of the enclosure.

A rood platform twelve feet in width is placed directly across each end of the park, and on each writing tables and chairs are provided for the use of the representatives of the press.

Baseball Players and Footraces.

Louis J. Krugers, ex-champion long distance racer of Germany and Holland, writes, Oct. 27th, 1901: "During my training of eight weeks' foot races at Salt Lake City, in April last, I used Ballard's Snow Liniment to my greatest satisfaction. I was highly recommended. Snow Liniment is all who are troubled with sprains, bruises or rheumatism." 25c, 50c, 1.00 bottle. Sold by R. C. Hardwick.

R. C. Morefield, Sr., real estate dealer and associated with the Christian County Title Co., residing at 222 W. Seventeenth street, says: "For several years the condition of my back and of the kidney secretion furnished ample evidence that I was suffering from kidney disorders. The aching in my back would come on by spells often so severe that it was painful for me to stoop or straighten up or to attempt any sudden movement. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised locally and thinking that they might help me, got a box at Thomas & Traheren's drug store. I had used them only a few days when I noticed a marked improvement in my condition, and I continued the treatment. It did me more good than any medicine I had ever used and that is putting it mildly. You may publish my statement at any time and I will do all I can to let the value of Doan's Kidney Pills be known."

THE GREAT LAWSON STORY.

Everybody's Magazine, August, 1904.

That Everybody's Magazine really has the biggest "scoop" of the era is Thos. W. Lawson's "Story of Amalgamation" is abundantly shown by the first installment of the series proper which is in the August number. The foreword was portentous with promise of startling disclosures. The initial chapters introduce the secret organization of Standard Oil, and its actual master, who is a person also unknown to the public. It is a wonderful picture Mr. Lawson gives of the huge business machine which has its headquarters at 26 Broadway, New York, and he paints, for the first time in his real colors, the man he deems to be the greatest business genius of the period, Henry F. Rogers. Then, with brutal directness, he describes how in dividing the profits of the Amalgamated deal, the biggest financiers in Wall Street were tricked and deceived like the veriest crowd of tyros. It is said the most sensational instance of the double cross in modern finance.

The usual power and vividness of Mr. Lawson's writing would attract attention to subject matter less important than the tremendous financial tragedy he has set out to give to the world. And it is impossible not to be impressed by the earnestness of the man in depicting the methods of the great monopoly. His disclosures can hardly fail to create a sensation which, as the other installments appear, will be full of menace to the flagrant juggling with money and honor which apparently goes on in financial centers. Under the stimulus of these extraordinary articles the July edition of Everybody's, 300,000, was sold out a few days after issue, a gain of 50,000 over the preceding month. The issue for August, generally the dullest month in the magazine world, is 330,000 copies.

The interest of the August number of this magazine, however, is not confined to Mr. Lawson's article. It is a most attractive issue, full of readable articles and light and entertaining stories. Vance Thompson presents some captivating pictures of the leader of Parisian society, the Duchess d'Uzes; another brilliant writer, Charles E. Trewarthen, describes the fascinating life of Saratoga in the racing season. Lindsay Denison tells several amusing political experiences in campaigning by special train. A very personal and interesting study of Theodore Thomas, by Charles E. Russell, is particularly readable.

There are seven short stories—the longest, by Maximilian Foster, a capital picture of Hungarian children in the coal regions of Pennsylvania. O. Henry contributes one of his inimitable Central American comedies. There is a diverting society comedy by Justus Miles Forman, and a charming love story by Emily Watson. The second installment of Hall Caine's "The Prodigal Son" shows that in returning to the field of his early triumphs the Maxx novelist has regained his old power. This story will surely repeat the success of "The Maxxman."

RECORD ORDER FOR WIRE NET

Panama Governor Wants 100,000 Yards to Keep Off Mosquitoes.

Washington, July 22.—General Davis, governor general of the Panama Canal strip, has advised the Panama Canal commission that he wants 100,000 yards of wire gauze to prevent mosquito invasion of the zone. Gen. Davis says that this will be perhaps the largest order for mosquito netting ever given. For the hospitals 20,000 yards will be needed, while for screening houses along the canal zone 75,000 yards will be required.

Scared to Death.

Dr. Francis W. McNamara, of Chicago, says: "Thousands of people are made helpless every year, perhaps, have their lives shortened, by feeling that they have heart disease. They have a pain in that region, and their own diagnosis is sufficient to convince them of the malady. As a matter of truth, there is seldom any real pain from heart disease. The trouble is indigestion only. The stomach, lying just under the heart, is distended to a painful degree by gases, and crowding toward the heart, makes the pain seem to be in that organ." This opinion simply confirms the claim of Dr. W. H. Caldwell, well known to the formula of Syrup Pepain, the guaranteed cure for indigestion and constipation. All druggists sell it, but be sure to ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepain.

Aged Learners at Harvard.

The Harvard Summer School has the distinction of having a group of students older than any other college can boast. The oldest is Rev. Edward Robie, of Greenland, N. H., eighty three years old, who is taking special work in theology. The next oldest is Dr. Leonard Bacon, a Congregational minister, of Asonet, Mass., whose lectures have been widely published in America. Dr. Bacon is seventy-four years old and is a tireless student. The Rev. W. Haskell, the Rev. Warren Ach, each sixty years old, complete a quartette, named the "Deans," of the summer school.

What's the secret of happy, vigorous health? Simply keeping the bowels, the stomach, the liver and kidneys strong and active. Burdock Blood Bitters does it.

PLANT COMPLETE

And Engineer Hirsh Leaves For Van Wert, Ohio.

Mr. Gustav Hirsh, chief engineer of the ideal Construction Company, who superintended the construction of the Home Telephone Company's plant in this city, left Friday night to begin a contract at Van Wert, Ohio. The telephone company at Van Wert has discarded the old-style instruments and will put in an automatic system about the same style as the one in use here. Mr. Hirsh leaves the Home Company here in good working condition, with about 525 phones in operation, although the company began business less than three weeks ago. Mr. Hirsh put in the plant in about 100 days from the time dirt was broken. He is a thoroughly capable and experienced man in his branch of work, and a gentleman of most engaging manners and pleasant address. He will return here in about two months. In the meanwhile, Mr. Arthur W. Hoge will remain to look after the construction of county lines, which work will be pushed at once until the entire county territory is covered. Mr. Frank G. Hoge has been installed as local manager of the Home Exchange. His selection is very gratifying to the many friends he has already made in Hopkinsville.

APPOINTED COUNTY JUDGE.

George V. Trippet succeeds Late Judge Haskins in Davess County.

Frankfort, Kentucky, July 21.—By appointment of the Governor, George V. Trippet, of Owensboro, becomes the successor of the late H. M. Haskins as Judge of the county of Davess. The appointment is until November next, when the place will be filled by election of the people of the county. The appointment went to Judge Trippet upon the recommendation of members of the bar of Davess county and business men of Owensboro, who in letters to Gov. Beckham, declared him to be well qualified to direct the fiscal and public affairs of the county. Judge Trippet has been filling the place of Judge for several months by selection of the bar during the illness of the late Judge Haskins. He will be a candidate for election to the office. Mr. Yewell Haskins, son of the former Judge, was an applicant for the appointment. Mr. Trippet is a brother-in-law of Gov. Beckham.

Liberal with That

The smallest baby ever born in Columbia county was that recently born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith, of Berwick.

At the time of its birth two months ago it weighed less than a pound, but has grown slightly until now weighs one and one-half pounds. It is perfectly developed in every way and appears to be in excellent health.

Senator George G. Vest, of Missouri, is critically ill and his death is liable to occur at any time.

The attendance at the World's Fair last week was 512,150, about 10,000 more than the previous week.

The cause of Judge Muir's death has been explained by a post mortem examination. He broke his neck while diving in shallow water.

Henderson has annexed some outlying territory and now claims a population of 15,502 an increase of about one-third.

Samuel Hopkins Adams has a story of a crow in the August McClure's. His Caleb Powers article in the March McClure's was a story of "Three Black Crows."

The World's Fair is three weeks over, and the National Commission calls attention to the disappointing attendance and gives as a cause the lack of proper advertisement.

Memphis, Knoxville and other Tennessee cities are having a wave of anti-gambling excitement, and Mayor Williams of Memphis says he will stop all forms of gambling, and will construct parlor game prizes as a species of gambling.

Henry G. Overstreet has announced himself a candidate for representative from Daviess county, and will doubtless be given the Democratic nomination without opposition. He is one of the coming men of the Second district.

Jim Howard has been granted a writ of error and his case has gone to the Supreme Court. This is the last move to keep him out of the penitentiary, and the decision will have a direct bearing on the case of Caleb Powers.

The Democratic Committee of the Eighth District called a primary election for October 1, to nominate a candidate for Congress. It is considered a triumph for Gilbert, as the opposition to him is divided between Helm and Moore.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. This tube is closed if you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

State Adoption of Text Books.
As our readers probably know, the recent Kentucky State Legislature passed a law for uniformity of school books throughout the State. Under this law the country schools and all graded schools without exception are required to use the same books. Those counties having county adoptions now in force, will not be required to change to the State adoption books until their county adoptions have expired, but all counties whose county adoptions have expired, and all city and graded schools in the State, will be obliged to use the books at once.

Under date of July 5th, the State Superintendent, Hon. James H. Fuqua, Sr., writes that an inspection of the returns from the County School Book Commissions throughout the State show that the books offered by the American Book Company are the ones selected according to law for State adoption for five years. We printed on July 12 a list of these books together with the retail prices. It will be seen by examination of these prices that the expense of books is so greatly lessened that the people of the State are to be congratulated upon having at last secured that which the legislature has been endeavoring for several years to accomplish. The reduction in expense will be fully one-third over the expense of school books under the old order of things.

The quality of the books, both as to subject matter and mechanical execution, is exceptionally good, considering the extreme low prices fixed by the legislature as a maximum price at which publishers should furnish them.

The new speller received one hundred and fifteen votes out of the one hundred and eighteen text book commissions that sent in returns; only one county in the State failed to send in its vote to State Superintendent Fuqua, at Frankfort. The new McGuffey readers are the equal of any readers published. These readers have been out but a short time, and the subject matter in the first, second and third and the illustrations are entirely new, and the same may be said of the fourth and fifth. The plan of these new readers is the same general plan upon which the original readers were built, and hence the name McGuffey is retained. The Ray's modern arithmetics, which are found in the list, are equal to any arithmetics that have ever been written. It is the old Ray, re-written, but as the name would indicate, modernized with modified definitions and problems to meet the views and terms of the present day. The natural geographies are first-class in every respect. The language lessons and grammars are those which have stood the test of time and are very widely used in the schools of this State at the present time as well as in the schools of other states. The physiologies on the list are new and are a series that has received the hearty commendation of the ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The histories and civil government books that have been widely used in the State heretofore and will, therefore, require no change in many of the counties in which they have been in use. Altogether, the quality of the books and the low prices are such that the people have good cause to rejoice, not only at the saving in money, but at the superior quality of the books that will be placed in the schools throughout the State.

It will also do away with one hardship that has been complained of in the past, and that is the thing experienced by many poor people in moving from one town or county to another of having to purchase an entirely new outfit of books.

Under the law, the old books used by the children may be used in part payment for the new books purchased by them, the exchange price of the new book being 50 per cent of the retail price.

The Missouri Democratic Convention adjourned Wednesday after naming a State ticket headed by Joseph W. Folk for Governor, and adopting a platform endorsing the national declaration of principles recently made in St. Louis. Mr. Folk in his speech of acceptance declared that the battle against bidders was just begun and that if elected he would make Missouri the most unhealthy place in all the land for corruptionists. The rest of the ticket is made up of his friends. Folk controlled all but five counties of the state.

TWO PRISONERS

Brought Here For Trial Before Very Hot Spell Due About Tenth U. S. Commissioners.

But Officer Found Official Dead, and They Returned to Owensboro.

Deputy United States Marshal George W. Gilliland returned from Hopkinsville Thursday morning in a rather bad humor. However, he was successful on his trip and had in custody two prisoners, charged with violating the government liquor law, says the Owensboro Messenger. Deputy Marshal Gilliland went to Madisonville on Monday for the purpose of serving two warrants. He arrested Aaron Wyon, of Providence, and Harry Bryant of Madisonville, charging them with selling liquor without a special government tax.

The law requires that United States marshals shall take prisoners to the nearest commissioners from the point of arrest for the examining trial.

Hopkinsville has the nearest commissioners to Madisonville and the marshal summoned five witnesses and took the train for Hopkinsville.

Deputy Gilliland, proud of his successful trip, marched into what he thought was the office of Commissioner Harry Ferguson, at Hopkinsville, with his two prisoners and five witnesses.

"Where is the Commissioner?" asked the grizzled marshal of a young man in the office.

"I don't know," replied the youth. "Ain't this his office?" anxiously inquired the deputy.

"This was his office, but he has been dead two months," replied the boy.

"And d—n it, they never told me of it. Well this if too bad," concluded Gilliland.

He went to the telephone and advised with his legal friends on the subject, who told him that Owensboro was the proper place to take his prisoners if there was no commissioner at Hopkinsville.

Deputy Gilliland left his witnesses at Madisonville to recuperate after the trip, but brought his prisoners on to this city.

Deputy Gilliland is wondering if the government will require him to pay the railroad fare of the prisoners and witnesses to Hopkinsville and return.

J. R. Neighbors, a saloon keeper at Elizabethtown, Ky., assaulted Mrs. Carrie Nation with a chair as she stood in front of his saloon denouncing the liquor traffic and those engaged in it. She was struck twice, once on the head, which would have been fatal, and on the shoulder. He was held over under a bond of $300.

The final bulletin of the negro census of the United States has been issued and the number is put at 9,204,531. This was four years ago. There are more now.

Editor W. H. Baldwin, of the Louisville Times has gone to see Judge Parker. He wires his paper that the presidential candidate may visit Louisville during the campaign.

Monday, Aug. 1, at the Court House door, the T. L. Yonts farm will be sold, and anyone wanting a desirable country home, would do well to attend the sale. The farm is well improved and contains 165 acres of good land.

The State College of Kentucky,

LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY.

The Agricultural and Mechanical State College of Kentucky offers the following courses of study: Agriculture, mechanical engineering, electrical engineering, civil engineering, mining engineering, each of which extends over four years and leads to a degree. Each course of study is organized in four years.

County apprentices receive tuition, room, rent in dormitories, fire and light, and if they remain tractable, a stipend.

The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern.

The legislature appropriated $100,000 for a college for young women and $100,000 for a girls' dormitory, the former to be located in the building now in use. Military tactics and science are fully provided as required by congress.

County apprentices receive tuition, room, rent in dormitories, fire and light, and if they remain tractable, a stipend.

The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the college to supply. Last year the enrollment was 750.

Students with the necessary number of assistants have charge of each department of natural science. Summer schools are provided for pedagogy, engineering and instruction in science.

The State College of Kentucky is the only institution in the South where women are admitted to any proper university work.

Sound Advice on Mining Investments.

The Consolidated Alpine.

A pamphlet issued by Walter S. Logan, an experienced investing attorney, on "The Art of Investing," is a work that should be in the hands of every man, whether he is investing for income or speculation.

We have taken the liberty of quoting the most salient points in the little book.

Mr. Logan says: "There are two classes of investments: First, The investment made to secure a safe and assured income without either risking or seeking to increase the principal. Second, The investment whose primary object is to increase the principal and to which the securing of present income is a secondary—or at least not the controlling—consideration.

Interest rates are steadily declining. When I first commenced practicing law in New York City a bonus was often paid by the borrower on a well-secured seven per cent. mortgage. Now a premium is paid by the lender on a four per cent mortgage with no better security. My office is collecting for clients coupons on railroad bonds issued twenty-five and thirty years ago, and carrying six and seven per cent. interest. Now, as the old bonds are paid off, we are glad to re-invest the money in good three per cent. bonds. Five per cent. government, state and municipal bonds, could, at the period I am speaking of, often be bought at a discount. Now three per cent. municipal bonds and two per cent. United States bonds command a premium.

"The lowering of the interest rate is still going rapidly on. At times there is a tight money squeeze and rates go up, but taking it year by year, the rate is steadily going down. In ten years from now the prevailing rate for good securities is quite as likely to be below as above two per cent. and Governments may come to sell on a basis as low as one per cent."

"The outlook for any one whose income depends directly or indirectly

business activities to the clipping of coupons—than ever before. This again creates competition for the class of investments which give simply interest returns, on the money invested.

"3. The accumulation of mined gold in the world is increasing with a rapidity that is certainly interesting.

"With South Africa again opened up as a great gold producing country, and with modern methods of gold production adopted all over the world, it is quite possible that the gold product of the world will soon reach five hundred million dollars a year or more.

BARNES NOTES.

Barnes, Ky., July 22.—The people of this neighborhood are all very busy threshing wheat.

Mr. L. B. King is very sick at this writing.

Mr. W. E. Mitchell, of Sturgis, and Mr. J. W. Mitchell, of your city, visited their sister, Mrs. Harry Haddock, near this place, last Sunday.

Mrs. E. M. Barnes is suffering from a felon on her finger.

There will be an ice cream supper at Ford's Chapel Saturday night, July 30. Everybody is most cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Henry Warner, who was shot by Gip Watkins, is now improving very rapidly and will soon be out.

The corn crop looks very flattering in this neighborhood at this time.

On July 11 the death angel entered the home of Mr. Jim Knight, and claimed for its own his lovely daughter, Mary. She was kind and loving and was liked and loved by all who knew her. She was about 17 years old. She had only been sick for a short time with typhoid fever. Weep not dear father and mother, for your loss is her eternal gain. Oh, how hard it is to stand by the death bed of our loved ones, but it is God's will, not ours. We can not call them back, but we can go with them.

LOG ROLLING.

W. O. W. to Meet at Dawson in August.

Preparations are being made to hold the largest Woodmen of the World Log Rolling at Dawson August 19 and 20, ever held in the South.

The big meeting will be held in beautiful Riverside Park, which was opened at the beginning of the present season, about a half mile from town on the west bank of the historic Tradewater river.

There will be a grand barbecue dinner on each day. Meals will be served on the ground at all times and everything will be done to make the visit of the Choppers and their friends pleasant and enjoyable.

Prominent Woodmen speakers from different parts of the country will be present.

A prize of $25.00 in cash will be awarded the best drilled Uniform Rank team for competitive drill work, the contest to be decided and governed by competent and disinterested judges.

A prize of $15.00 will be awarded the victorious camp in the log rolling contest, the logs to be rolled and piled two feet out of three, a log rolling contest to take place each day. As many camps may compete as desired, only members of the W. O. W. being eligible to take part in the contest, the winners to be decided as above.

A mock initiation of a Woodman will be given in the Hamby Vauderville Theater on the evening of Aug 19th. This will be one of the funniest and most interesting features of the big meeting.

With South Africa again opened up as a great gold producing country, and with modern methods of gold production adopted all over the world, it is quite possible that the gold product of the world will soon reach five hundred million dollars a year or more.

"On the other hand, it is, in my judgment, a good time to invest in the thing itself—property of any kind of permanent intrinsic value—when the investment is intelligently and conservatively made.

"The outlook for any one whose income depends directly or indirectly

business activities to the clipping of coupons—than ever before. This again creates competition for the class of investments which give simply interest returns, on the money invested.

BASE BALL

Hoosier Boys Will Play Three Games Here.

Then Henderson Team Will Arrive For a Series of Games.

Games are scheduled for this city five days this week. Vincennes will be here today, tomorrow, and Thursday, and Henderson follows in a series of games with Hopkinsville. The Hoosiers have been playing great ball recently and some of the best games of the season are expected at Athletic park this week. Some fine ball playing is also in store for the fans when the tallenders arrive on the local diamond.

The game here last Thursday between the locals and Clarksville was won by Hopkinsville, the score being 9 to 8. The locals scored one run in the first inning. Neither side made a run until the fifth inning when the visitors got a man across the home plate. In the sixth the Hopkinsville boys made several costly errors and Clarksville succeeded in running in six scores making seven runs in all for the visitors. In the last half of this inning, however, the Browns rallied their forces and made five runs. Clarksville failed to score in the seventh, but Morris for the locals, knocked the ball over the right field fence, making a home run. This tied the score. In the eighth neither side was able to score. The visitors made another run in the ninth. When Hopkinsville came to the bat Meander hit for two bases, Pettifer singled, and Morris gave the visitors a hot liner, which they were unable to handle, and the two men on bases scored and the villagers were defeated. The local team went to Clarksville Friday and played the first game of a series in the afternoon, winning the contest by the score of 9 to 6. This was a twelve-inning game. The contest was close and exciting, until the seventh inning, when the Browns ran in four men. In the ninth Morris knocked a two bagger, bringing in three more runs. Clarksville tied the score in the ninth. Neither side scored again until the twelfth, when with two men on bases Morris made a home run. Bomar's work in the box and Morris' slugging were the features of the game. Bomar struck out twelve men.

About 25 Hopkinsville people went over to Clarksville Saturday to see the second game between the Browns and Grays. The triumph of the day before was, unfortunately not repeated by the Browns, who went down in defeat by a score of 7 to 3. The team came home at night but returned yesterday morning to finish up the series at Clarksville. The locals were expected to break even on the six games, having won two of the five previously played.

On The Fly.

A Henderson dispatch says: "Umpire Popp was this week released. He started out all right but the teams soon became dissatisfied with his decisions and it was decided to call him in. The league has not been having the best of luck with its umpires this season."

Popp was on duty at Clarksville Saturday and the understanding was that he would act again yesterday. He has been doing fairly well in this end of the league. He is a great improvement over Shus.

Capt. Wilkinson, of Vincennes, now heads the list of all the K. I. T. league players in hitting. His average in thirty-one games is .402. Long follows with .400. Wilder leads on the Cairo team with .314. There are only seven players batting .300 or better. Wilder who is regarded as one of the best players on the Cairo team, lives at Evansville, Ind., and it is understood he has received several offers to go into a bigger league next year. Harley who was released by Cairo, was signed by Clarksville and is playing good ball. Moore has an average of .367 the only Hopkinsville man above .300. Morris is next with .285. Maender has .257. Peiphoff .252. Alexander .245. Ferrell .242. Bomar .229. Collins .204. Marre .146. Brady .137. Pettifer, the new man, is in the .300 class.

Calro is having troubles of her own. Joe Schwab, the best batter and fastest out-fielder of the team jumped the Tadpoles. Schwab left Thursday night for Popular Bluff, Mo. He will play with the independent team of the city.—Paducah Register.

Clarksville turned out Saturday in brand new suits of gray. No wonder they put up a good game. New suits of the finest quality have been ordered for the Paducah team. The coats are to be of gray with blue trimmings. The suits will be blue.

Mullen, formerly with Hopkinsville, later sold to Greenville, in the Cotton States league, is with Henderson. Brabie struck him out three times and Freeman fanned him once. Mullen was once a batter.—News-Democrat.

Cairo and Paducah are matched this week for seven games, four at Cairo and three at Paducah.

Pettifer pitched again at Clarksville Saturday, and while he did fairly well, the left field was weakened by the experiment. Clarksville put forward its best pitcher and the victory was an easy one.

Morris' latest nickname is "Foxey Grandpa."

Most of the battered boys are getting over their injuries and are in position to play good ball this week.

Peiphoff's lame leg is about well again and he went to Clarksville with the locals yesterday. When "Germany" is at himself there are few better short stops in the league.

Vincennes beat Cairo Sunday and once more entered the 400 class.

CUBAN PROPHET

Says United States Will Lose Mail Her Possessions.

Within three or four years the United States will find itself involved in a disastrous war with Mexico, Cuba, France, Germany and some other Power. European or American, the name of which I am at a loss to give at present. As a consequence of this war the United States will lose a great deal of its territory and power; in fact, nearly half of that which it possesses today. Mexico will raise itself to the front rank of nations, recovering some of its territory lost to the United States—such as California, Texas and New Mexico. And Porto Rico, Haiti and Santo Domingo will solidify with Cuba into one nation.

This is a boon to those who do not possess a safe and to families traveling. These boxes are accessible during all business hours to the renter, who holds the key.

The writer is not Mexican, as you may perhaps conjecture, but a Cuban in full possession of his mental faculties and a friend and admirer of the Yankee people, and one who believes, although he is not a Spiritualist, and for some reason that he can't explain, that for a fraction of a moment the veil of the future has been torn aside and enabled him to predict the events cited above.—Havana El Mundo.

BIG CAVE

Discovered in Letcher County By Party of Explorers.

One of the largest caves ever discovered in Eastern Kentucky, and one that will perhaps rival the great Mammoth Cave in Edmonson county, has just been discovered on Line Fork Creek, in Southern Letcher county, near the Perry county line. A party of sightseers explored its mysterious confines to a distance of over seven miles. The party were unable to find any end to the natural wonder. A large, swift-flowing stream of water was discovered rushing on into undiscovered regions. Fearing to go any farther the party returned. Another party will be organized to explore the cave to its extremity. Several other caverns have been discovered in the Line Fork region, but this is the most extensive yet discovered.

The Truly Magical Art of the Silhouette

Cutting Pictures from a Sheet of Black Paper With a Pair of Scissors.

THERE is no art in black and white that can produce anything to equal the beauty of a first-class silhouette.

Capt. Tharp, of England, the artist whose pictures are here reproduced, has been pronounced to be the finest silhouette in the world. No one who has seen his marvelous work can doubt for a moment this assertion.

His pictures of springing scenes in which he delights the most, display a masterly accuracy of treatment and a complete knowledge of the subject.

Since quite a small boy he has been interested in drawing and has made it his delight to catch them in the parks. Concealed behind a tree, he would take notes of the antlers and the foreshortening of their forms as they stood grazing around him. Then, on returning home, he would select his scissors and paper and from this he would attempt to cut out the animals while their shapes and attitudes remained vividly impressed in his memory.

Once, after visiting a circus, he remembers sitting down on the hearth rug and cutting out from a piece of old newspaper the dancing maidens on horseback and the tumbling clowns as he had seen them. These were not rough, rather crude productions, but unmistakably clever for a boy not five years old. They showed a talent that with practice might be developed.

His early work was all carefully preserved by his father and pasted on the wall, side by side with his later and more finished productions. Thus he constructed. There is no remedy for an ungracious pose but to commence the scene all over again.

It would be more correct to call silhouette-cutting a gift rather than an art. No amount of practice will enable anyone to produce such pictures unless he has a natural talent for the work.

The artist who aspires to this method of delineation must possess two qualities—an accurate eye for form, and a steady hand. Without both these, success is impossible. Steadiness of the hand is absolutely necessary, especially in the production of the fine tracery work shown in some of the illustrations.

Before commencing to work he must have a perfect image in his mind of the object he proposes to produce, the artist with house and pencil, he cannot improve and embellish his ideas as he goes along. No, he must begin with a fixed purpose, and with that purpose.

Again, usually the case with artistic prodigies, he was so bombarded by friends, begging for their portrait, or "just a little sketch of the hunt," that he became utterly wearied of his hobby, and for a time only worked in fits and starts.

Last year, when serving with his regiment in India, Capt. Tharp felt the desire to silhouette come over him again. But in such a broiling temperature he found it impossible to manipulate the paper. His fingers became as black as the silhouette itself, and he was eventually forced to discontinue it until he returned to England.

But, although he was not practicing his art, his residence in India had afforded him ample opportunity, of which he was not slow to avail himself, of studying the wild denizens of the jungle, which he loves to portray.

There is much to be learned there, however, much to be learned there is no shading to relieve the flatness of the picture. All depends on the perfection of the outline to convey an impression of depth, so that the mind's eye may fill in the details.

Such are the difficulties most difficult of all animals to delineate correctly.

The perspective of the horns changes with the slightest turn of the head; the very gracefulness of the body and the slender legs are borrowed from a certain ungainliness, so often to be seen in their various attitudes.

To glance at the illustrations of this article one would imagine that the artist who "scissored" these out of black paper must be an expert draughtsman.

This is not the case. On the contrary, if anyone asked Capt. Tharp to get no more reasonable to expect to get good health from bad blood than it is to expect to get a good crop out of bad soil. Bad blood is and always must be the enemy of good health. The several organs of the body are nourished by blood. If the blood is bad, that is to say impure, or if it is deficient in red corpuscles, commonly known as "poor" blood, the vital organs of the body must be weakened.

In general the impurity of the blood is marked by surface eruptions, such as boils, pimples, eczema, tetter, scrofulous sores, or erysipelas.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures disfiguring eruptions, scrofulous sores, and cures other results of impure blood, because it cleanses the blood of the impurities which cause disease. It acts directly on the blood-making glands, increasing the quantity and improving the quality of the blood.

"I write this note for the benefit of any who may be suffering," says Mr. John T. Walk, of Muldow, Texas. "I have received a perfect cure. Had chronic sore leg for four years and went to see two doctors, who failed to give me any good advice. wrote to you asking for advice and you told me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and use his All-Healing Salve. I did so, and am now perfectly well. I have given away my salve and six boxes of the Salve. I was cured. I will recommend your medicines to all my friends, and will advise any who are suffering from any chronic disease to write to Dr. Pierce, as he will kindly give advice freely as he did to me."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and do not want.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to cover expense of mailing only. Send twenty-one one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers; or thirty-one stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HOW COLLIS CAME HOME.

BY HAYDEN CARRUTH.

Ethel paused on the topmost crest of Lone Mound, which rose like a great, single land wave in the midst of the plain. It was on a Friday afternoon late in June, and the sun shone down hot from the western sky, though on the Mound in the full sweep of the south wind the heat was not oppressive.

The girl gazed off in all directions across the prairie, and then down at the road which wound around the Mound at the north. A carriage coming from the west caught her eye.

"Why," she exclaimed, "it's Dr. Baker. I must find out about Collis."

The girl ran lightly down the steep declivity, leaving behind the wide view of the rolling ocean of green as the hurrying wind bent the acres upon acres of wheat, almost ready to turn from green to gold, which stretched as far as the eye could reach. Only to the northeast was there any break in the sea of green, and here a depression almost at the horizon's edge marked the site of the little town of Underbluff, in the valley of the Mississippi river and several hundred feet below the level of the prairie.

The carriage was coming rapidly, and when the girl burst from the thicket of dwarf oaks and hazel bushes which clustered in the shadow of the Mound, it had passed along the road.

"Oh, Dr. Baker! won't you stop, please?" she cried with the little breath remaining.

The horse was pulled up sharply, and the doctor's kindly face peered around the hooded cover. "Why, it's Ethel Craddock," he exclaimed. "What is it, Ethel?"

"I wanted to ask about Collis," answered the girl, coming up beside the carriage and looking earnestly at the doctor. "Miss Bent was just speaking about him when school closed. She heard that he's worse."

"Well, I don't know as I'd say that exactly," returned the doctor, slowly, plainly anxious to look at the case in the best light possible; "but he certainly doesn't seem to gain. In fact, I suppose the tenth is that he is gradually growing weaker, though it would insist that the least possible time be spent on the journey."

"Oh, I'm sure there'll be no trouble in getting men enough. There isn't a neighbor who would refuse. Everybody likes Collis."

"Why, it's Ethel Craddock," he exclaimed. "What is it, Ethel?"

"I wanted to ask about Collis," answered the girl, coming up beside the carriage and looking earnestly at the doctor. "Miss Bent was just speaking about him when school closed. She heard that he's worse."

"Well, I don't know as I'd say that exactly," returned the doctor, slowly, plainly anxious to look at the case in the best light possible; "but he certainly doesn't seem to gain. In fact, I suppose the tenth is that he is gradually growing weaker, though it would insist that the least possible time be spent on the journey."

"Miss Bent says it has been so long that she is afraid—"

"Yes, yes; of course," broke in the doctor. "He should have been well before this. He got through the critical stages splendidly, but hasn't seemed to pick up since. I really can't see that medicine does much for him. For one thing, he's very homesick."

"Miss Bent says she believes he would get well if he could come home. She thinks he ought to be brought home."

The doctor shook his head. "No, it would not be safe. He isn't strong enough to stand the journey up through the rough country, no matter how easy the carriage might be. I couldn't think of allowing it, though I believe myself that home would do more for him than all my medicines. He is constantly wishing he might go home, and now that his mother is sick he is worrying about her."

"It's too bad," was all Ethel said, as with a kindly "good-by" the doctor started on.

The girl turned and went slowly along the road toward her home, thoughts of the patient still uppermost in her mind. Collis Adams was a boy of her own age, who had been her schoolmate ever since they had trudged off to the little white schoolhouse on the other side of Lone Mound. His mother was a widow, with two younger children, who lived a mile beyond the road where she had spoken with the doctor. Collis had always been rather delicate, and when, six weeks before, he had been taken with a fever while visiting an aunt in town, it had gone hard with him, though, after all, he had come through the fever quite remarkably, but the after-effects had proved lingering and serious. The aunt's home was poorly fitted for an invalid, and his surroundings were not pleasant. A strong home-loving lad to start with, this had but aggravated his desire to get back to his own little room in the cool shadow of a big oak and looking out over the waving fields of wheat. Mrs. Adams, his mother, was far from rich, and had many home duties, so long as she could do so she had gone to see him every day and done everything possible for him. But now she was herself ill, and had been forced to give up these visits.

At Ethel went on her way she revolved in her mind a plan which had first occurred to her vaguely when the doctor said that it would be impossible to bring Collis over the ten miles of rough road between Underbluff and his home. Why could not he be carried by men on foot, in the way soldiers are conveyed from the battlefield? She knew that there was no chance of the little village affording anything in the way of a stretcher, but she could see no reason why poles could not be fastened along the side of a cot for handles and a litter thus improvised, on which he could be carried and scarcely know that he was not in bed. When Dr. Baker would say to the plan she could not tell, but she felt sure if he approved of it, that it could be done.

As soon as Ethel reached home, she sought out her mother and laid the plan before her. Mrs. Craddock was not at first inclined to be very enthusiastic about it. She pointed out that it would require a large number of men, for although a few could easily carry such a burden for a short distance, it would soon become very wearisome and frequent relays would be necessary, as no doubt the doctor, if he gave his consent at all, would insist that the least possible time be spent on the journey.

"Oh, I'm sure there'll be no trouble in getting men enough. There isn't a neighbor who would refuse. Everybody likes Collis," she said, "to that sort of work on Sunday. If he would be the best day even if there were no hurry, because it will be quiet, and there'll be no dust."

"Well, so far as I am concerned," said the mother, "you're welcome to see some of the neighbors in the morning and find out what they think of the plan. Then you must see Dr. Baker."

Ethel was up an hour earlier than usual the next morning, and directly after breakfast set out, driving the pony. As she had planned, she first visited her Uncle Jeff. Here she got nothing but encouragement. He readily consented to go to the village, as soon as Ethel could report the plan feasible and prepare the cot. She next saw Mrs. Adams, the boy's mother. The poor woman was herself scarcely able to sit up, but Dr. Baker had ready to welcome any plan which might bring her boy to her. She feared that he was too weak to stand even such a journey as Ethel proposed, but as to this she was willing to leave everything to Dr. Baker. "If he can be got here without hurting him," she said, as Ethel started to go, "I feel sure that he will begin to gain. He is doing nothing but growing weaker where he is."

It was the work of but an hour for Ethel to visit half a dozen neighbors and get their promise to help. They agreed also to spread the news of the plan, and to call at the Craddock house that evening to learn the decision which she should bring back from Dr. Baker. Then she started for the village. At first the doctor was inclined to think unfavorably of the project, but at last he consented to visit Collis again, and perhaps let the way the plan seemed to affect the patient himself have some weight in the matter. Ethel accompanied him, and while he went in she waited on the porch. When he came out, he said:

"Well, I think he is very weak for such a trip, but the way his face lit up and his whole manner changed at my bare suggestion it makes me think that it will be best to try it. If he can get without hurt, I think it will cure him. Tell the men to be on hand early, while it's cool."

In ten minutes Ethel was hurrying up the long ravine which led to her prairie home. That evening the word was passed about that the boy was to be brought home on the morrow.

The next morning dawned clear and pleasant. It was only a little after sunrise when the volunteers gathered at the house where the sick boy was. Ethel and her father and mother had been the first to arrive. There were 20 other men besides Mr. Craddock on hand, and two or three women to help Mrs. Craddock company. Twice as many more men had promised to meet the procession on the way and lend a hand. Dr. Baker was there to superintend the start. The patient was surely light enough so that not many men would be required to carry him, but the cot with its spring and canopy and side bars made up a weight which needed strong and steady arms. It was arranged so that eight men could take hold at once, while the others to relieve them came behind. Dr. Baker with his own strong arms placed the boy in the cot, and promising to overtake the procession in half an hour, saw it move off along the street.

"All that he said as I pulled down the canopy side," said the doctor as he came up to the carriage where the girl and her mother sat, "was, 'Thank you, doctor.' The girl's face glowed with pleasure at this as they followed after the others.

Every quarter mile or less the men were met without stopping by fresh bearers. The other expected men were met all along the road. No stop was made till Dr. Baker came up. He looked at the patient, and when he withdrew his head, all could read his report in his face. "I believe he's beginning to improve already," he said. "If he holds out as well as he has begun, it will be a success." Then the procession moved on up the narrow coule.

Few stops were made. Occasionally the doctor looked in at him, and gave him a drink of water or a sip of medicine, and always his report was favorable. After they came up on the prairie where the road was smoother and the motion steadier the boy fell asleep and slept for the rest of the way. By this time there were over 50 men and a dozen wagons in the procession. It was not much after one o'clock when the Adams house was reached and the little patient carried in. As the doctor placed him in his own bed, he awoke and recognized the place, and his mother standing over him regardless of the doctor's orders not to leave her bed.

"All he said when he opened his eyes," said the doctor, again coming up to Ethel, was: "I've come home, mother, and thank you, doctor."

The home-coming did all that was hoped for Collis, and his gain from that hour was constant. He still lives in sight of Lone Mound, though he's a man now and has a boy as big as he was himself when he made this journey. And sometimes he says to the younger of his smaller sisters, "Home's the best place to get well in. I don't think I'd ever pulled through that time if your mother hadn't got up that moving bed and fetched me home by hand." — County Gentleman.

POOR MEDICAL GRADUATES.

There are so many in Germany their average earnings are very small.

Medical schools in the United States are giving sheepskins to thousands of graduates every year, and the standard of education in the treatment of the sick is now well maintained in most quarters of the union, says the New York Tribune. In Germany the practitioners of the art of healing are increasing in numbers almost as rapidly as in this country, and statistics show that in certain parts of Continental Europe there is one doctor to every 800 inhabitants.

Of these physicians it is believed that more than 40 per cent have incomes of less than $750 a year, and there are said to be thousands whose average earnings do not reach $500. Disciples of Hippocrates are far too numerous when their practice brings in less than $10 a week.

One Bride Gone to Dover, Maine—Couple of County People Married in Clarksville.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Q. L. Hagen, of 303 Brown street, this city, Thursday evening. The contracting parties were Mr. J. Mark Robbins, a well-known young man formerly of Boston, but now a prosperous business man of Dover, Me., and Miss Lelia Beatrice Wicks, of Hopkinsville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. C. Beckett, pastor of the Universalist church, at 8:30 o'clock, in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives. The best man was Mr. Rodney E. Marshall, a New York newspaper man. The bride was attended by Miss Neta Lee Parker of Ft. Worth, Texas. The bride was becomingly gowned in muslin de soie. She carried diamond pinks and diamond egrats adorned her hair. Miss Ella Wicks, sister of the bride, acted as flower girl. She was attired in pink muslin de soie.

After the ceremony a tempting wedding lunch was served by Mrs. Hagen to the relatives and a few friends.

Miss Wicks is well known, has a host of friends, and for the past four years has been connected with the Christian county court clerk's office.

Mr. and Mrs. Robbins left on the Friday morning train, amid showers of rice and confetti and the good wishes of friends, for St. Louis. After a short stay in the fair city they will tour to Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Md., Philadelphia, Pa., and New York city. They will make their home for the present with Mr. Robbins' mother, Mrs. C. E. Morse, Dover, Me.

An Unmailed Letter.

An interesting and almost tragic story of an unmailed letter comes from Worcester, Mass. It is a story of true love, with fruition long deferred, because of the forgetfulness of a man who should have mailed a letter. Nearly fifteen years ago Howard Harris wrote a letter to his sweetheart, who lived on a farm near Worcester, asking her to be his wife. This sweetheart loved Howard devotedly, and after waiting a few days, so as not to appear too eager or too easily won, she wrote a sweet reply, agreeing to marry him, and gave the letter to her brother to mail. But Howard waited in vain for an answer. No letter came. He felt that he was rejected, and was hurt by the silence which implied a contempt. But he still loved, and after a year of waiting he resolved to try again. He wrote the young woman another letter, avowing his constant love, despite the discouragement which oppressed him, and urging her still to consent to be his wife. The young woman had also waited for a letter which did not come in reply to her consenting epistle, and when days, weeks, and months passed without a word from her lover, she was naturally indignant. So when, after the lapse of a year, a letter came, she, in her wounded pride, tore it, the missive unread in the fire. Apparently the incident was closed. Apparently this young man and young woman, who still loved each other, were destined to live apart and be nothing to each other. Meanwhile, the brother who had forgotten to mail his sister's letter died, and one day, nearly fifteen years after the ill-fated letter was written, the sister, looking through some of her brother's old clothing, found the missing letter in the lining of a coat, where it had slipped through a hole in the pocket. What was to be done? Burn the old letter and bear with a deep scar a painful memory? Not so. Being a sensible woman, and knowing that her former lover was still unmarried, she wrote to him and told him about it, explaining why he had not received her answer in the first place, and why she had not read his second letter. It was a strange, yet simple story, and was an explanation that was due. The rest of the story is easily told. They were married. But the young man who forgot to mail the letter gave them lots of trouble.

Master Harry Boyd left last Thursday for St. Louis to visit his uncle, Mr. L. G. Shanklin, and the World's Fair.

Rev. J. L. Wyatt and wife left this morning for Blount Springs, Ala., where they will spend a week before going to Longview, Ala., for a month's stay.

Misses Katherine and Rosebud Wood returned home Saturday, after a month's sojourn at Red Boiling Springs, Tenn., whither they had gone on account of Miss Rosebud's health. She was benefited but stopped over in Nashville to see the noted Dr. Witherspoon, who is treating her case now.

Misses Maud and Alice Satterfield of Nashville, and Miss Louise Carr, of Hopkinsville, are the pleasant guests of Miss Elizabeth Gardner this week. * * * * *

Miss Belle Lander, who has been visiting relatives here for several weeks, returned to her home in Hopkinsville last Thursday—Franklin Favorite.

Mr. Albert W. Lander, of New Hope, Texas, an old Hopkinsville boy, is here on a visit to relatives, with his little girl. Mr. Lander has not visited Kentucky for seven years. He is very much interested in Sunday school work and attended the Baptist Sunday school Sunday morning and made a brief address. Last evening he was entertained at dinner by his cousin, Mrs. C. H. Dietrich, the date being his birthday anniversary.
